What this Wiki is intended for

This Wiki is intended to be a Meta-Resource to the so called "Maddie Case".

Besides some additional informations here you will mainly find structured links to resources into the Maddie-Case available in the World-Wide-Web.

The internet today holds tens of thousands of pages related to this "Criminal Case of the Century". The →official PJ-Files were given to the public in 2008 and hold about 11223 pages of statements, photos and physical hard facts. Besides this serious source there are a lot of forensically worth non-official information through newspapers and media around the world. The largest serious collection are the →McCannFiles which will add up at least another 10000 pages of highly interesting information. Also there exist a large number of Blogs and Forums of discussion of the Case which also hold a lot of very unstructured information.

The structured Entry into the matter shall allow the Public, Journalists and Investigators to get informations in a convenient and serious way.

Hopefully this Resource will help somebody to finally solve and close the miraculous Case of Madeleine Beth McCann.

How to use the Wiki

The entrance of every Wiki is something very unimposing: The SEARCH-Bar at the Top-Right Edge of the Webpage.

Searching for your desired information can be done by:

1. Type in a search phrase into the Search field at the top right banner picture to get a list with places of findings.
2. Choose one place of findings to get your desired information.
3. Use the blue crosslinks to hip-hop through the informations as you like.
4. Use the "Backlinks" button at the command line at the bottom to see which articles link to the actual one.
5. Use external links which are signed by an arrow → in front of its blue link.
6. Jumping back to this start-page can be done at any point by klicking the string "Just five hours

7. Use the "Recent changes" button at the command line at the bottom to see which articles are new or have changed.
 8. Use the "Sitemap" button at the bottom command line or the left sidebar for a list of files.
 9. Use the "Discussion" button at the bottom command line for short discussions and questions.
 10. You may also have a look at other webresources for further informations
